

Welcome to our October edition of "Eco-Bulletin!"

As the autumn season unfolds, we are reminded of the changing environment around us and our shared responsibility to protect it. This month, we have exciting updates, upcoming events, and new resources to support you in fostering healthier, more sustainable communities.

We are thrilled to announce an upcoming national event, hosted by the Environmental Health Association of Québec, in partnership with the Environmental Health Association of Canada, via Zoom, titled: "Breaking Barriers: Advancing Accessibility and Human Rights for People with Multiple Chemical Sensitivity (MCS)" The event will take place on November 21, 2024, from 1:30 to 4:30 PM EST.

Secure your spot now by registering here: Zoom Registration. Be sure to mark your calendar and join the Zoom room well before the start time to guarantee your participation.

The event will feature speakers sharing lived experiences of MCS, including a surprise guest who is a prominent figure in Canada. We will also hear from the CEO of Accessibility Standards Canada, the Canadian Human Rights Commission, and three lawyers, one of whom has a track record of winning MCS cases. The event will conclude with a diverse panel discussing efforts to promote the inclusion of MCS across Canada.

We invite you to contribute to our "Your Story, Your Power" section by sharing your personal experiences, submitting articles for our Eco Empowerment blog, or providing resources related to Multiple Chemical Sensitivity (MCS) and environmental awareness in your area.

If you live with MCS, your perspective is invaluable. We kindly ask you to take a few moments to complete our survey, which will help us improve our support for the MCS community. Even if you don't have MCS, your input is still vital, and we'd greatly appreciate your feedback through this survey.

Please consider joining the EHAC-ASEC community, where over 2,000 members are committed to safeguarding human health and the environment. Should you have any questions or need more information, feel free to reach out!
